Colonization of Counties of Utah

-4-

UINTAH COUNTY

This county takes its name from the Uintah Mountains, or the Uintah Indians, who once inhabited the area.

It was first settled in 1862. The first settlers had to leave because of Indian troubles.

Six miles from Jensen is the worlds largest deposits of Dinosaur skeletons.

An Indian reservation is located in the county.

This county is rich in natural resources--coal, copper, oil and minerals.

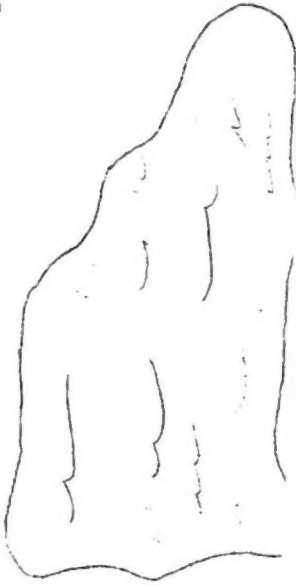

Farming and stock raising are also important.

RICH COUNTY

It was first called Richland because of the rich soil found there. The name was shortened to Rich.

The first settlements were made at Garden City, Randolph, and Woodruff.

Most of the people are engaged in farming and stock raising.
